

In this issue

Issue 223 Spring 2025

42

Compass

13 Editorial

Striving to connect objects with their makers or place and time of making could broaden the appreciation of carpet and textiles

23 Dialogue

The Textile Museum turns 100; Zeki Müren rugs at Milan Design Week; a new ikat book; a new era for Andean textiles at The Met; R.L Shep Award winner; Mamluks at MITA; noble carpets on show

26 Diary

HALI's recommendations for the quarter

29 Calendar

Auctions, exhibitions, fairs and conferences

30 Thread of time

Rachel Meek

A lampas hat is the 11th-century forerunner to computing; La Machine is a tool used to teach the art of midwifery in 18th-century France

32 Travellers' tales

Cosima Stewart

Tradition has withstood centuries of change in the village of Qaraşöp, which gave its name to the Karachov carpet

36 Profile

William Dunbar

Valuable textiles from the homeland of Nasreen and Hasan Askari led to the opening of Pakistan's first dedicated textile museum

40 Anatomy of an object

Isabella Rosner

Samplers sometimes need subtle detective work to discover their origins

42 Common thread

Textile collectors, educators and skilled needleworkers: William and May Morris

Features

46 Art, oil and troubled waters

Dorothy Armstrong

The forces and personalities at play in the lasting controversy of the The International Exhibition of Persian Art in London in 1931

60 Stitched into immortality

Isabella Rosner

Six examples of embroidered portraits vividly convey biographical information and the state of mind of the subjects

68 Bringing it all back home

Peter Lee

An exhibition of batik shows the works of three generations of Indonesian female artists

72 Person to person

Six authors each shed light on an object that portrays, belonged to, or was made by a known individual

78 India's pomegranate century

Brigitte Khan Majlis

The pomegranate pattern's entry into the Indian textile design pool and its use in the Subcontinent

104

108

84

84

By royal command

Janet Marion Purdy

The history and future of ndop, an indigo cotton cloth from West Africa

92

The royal way of living

Turaj Zhuleh

An historic carpet exhibition celebrates the reopening of Shams-ol-Emareh in the Golestan Palace

104

A question of focus

Hadi Maktabi

The first significant publication for years on the Carpet Museum of Iran's collection

108

What's in a name

Brian Morehouse

Confusing and contradictory attributions associated with the rare and highly sought-after Şarkışla rugs are dispelled

120

In bloom

Avalon Fotheringham

A significant exhibition of Indian textiles from the TAPI collection has been expanded and updated

128

The weavers once known

Michele Hardy

An exhibition of historical carpets in Calgary's Nickle Galleries focuses on the lives of weavers

Reviews

134

Book reviews

Tibetan Rugs: The Molacek Collection by Rudi Molacek, reviewed by Michael Buddeberg; Istanbul in the Western Literary Imagination 1547–2024: Books and Manuscripts from the Ömer Koç Collection by Sven Becker, reviewed by Penny Oakley

140

Exhibition reviews

'Batik Nyonyas: Three Generations of Art and Entrepreneurship', Peranakan Museum, Singapore, reviewed by Thomas Murray; 'Textiles from Bengal: A Shared Legacy', Kolkata Centre for Creativity, Kolkata, reviewed by Monisha Ahmed; 'And All That Is In Between', Islamic Arts Biennale, Jeddah, reviewed by Ben Evans

Marketplace

150

Auction Price Guide

International auction results of note

160

Last page

A current exhibition at LACMA showcases textiles, clothing and headwear representing more than twenty African cultures

