

In this issue

Issue 224 Summer 2025

Compass

9 Editorial

The messages of when, where and how a textile was made shouldn't be overlooked

21 Dialogue

'Garden Carpet' for the 21st century; Siena weavings; Mamluks; war rugs in Bergamo; April from Paris; one-hundred-and-one Indonesian textiles; return of a long-lost tapestry; Senegalese artworks star at the Met

24 Diary

HALI's recommendations for the quarter

27 Calendar

Auctions, exhibitions, fairs and conferences

28 Thread of time

Rachel Meek

An outfit for the Siamese royal guard and a Moroccan mirror cover represent cross-cultural approaches to fear

30 Travellers' tales

Ben Evans

One of the delights of bringing collectors together is the opportunity to handle textiles and experience their tactility firsthand

32 Profile

Markus Voigt

Serge Liagre, founder of Villa Rosemaine, brings a theatrical touch to his work with costumes and textiles

36 Anatomy of an object

A curious garment made with both Turkish and Iranian silk fabrics is housed in The Textile Museum's collection

38 Common thread

Costume from locations across the African continent hold complex histories relating to power, possession and trade

110

Features

42 Rise and fall of the gentleman's robe

Alexandra Palmer

In the 17th and 18th centuries, a new garment emerged as 'East India' companies flourished

54 Textile stories from North Africa

Kristen Windmuller-Luna

A curator traces the different lights in which North African textiles and jewellery have been viewed

62 Glowing reputation

Magali An Berthon

An exhibition at the Musée du quai Branly in Paris examines the eternal allure of wearing gold

66 Power dressing

Christine Nagel and Viktoria Pisareva

The history of rare costume treasures of the Saxon Electors is told

74 A window into a Qing embroidery shop

Rachel Silberstein

Rare evidence illuminates the textile trade in early 19th-century Canton

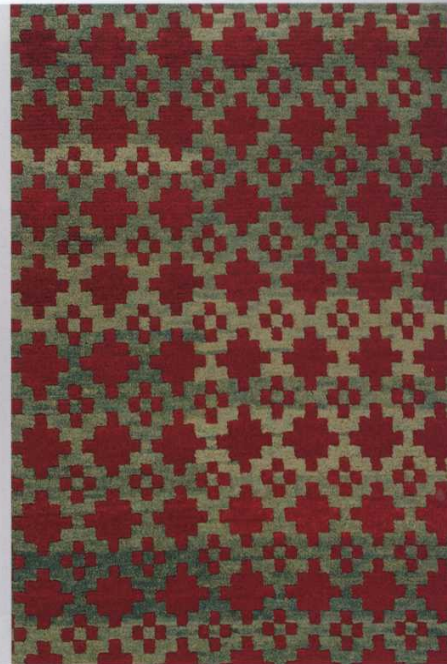

84

102

122

Reviews

78 At the crossroads of modernity

Waleria Dorogova

An exhibition in Paris explores the career and legacy of Charles Worth, pioneer of haute couture

84 Facing up to battle

John Guy

Two 18th-century soldier's jackets in the Karun Thakar Collection carry complex meaning and designs intended to intimidate

88 From within or without?

Frank Ames

The influences behind Kashmir shawls of the Sikh era are investigated

96 Rites of passage

Snezhanna Atanova

Turkmen women's clothing, such as the chyrpy, is particular to the stages of a person's life

102 The patterns of poetry

Nazanin Hedayat Munroe

Safavid figural silks are repositories of spirituality and storytelling

110 Drawing the threads together

Shelley Burian

We celebrate The Textile Museum in Washington, DC's double anniversary

120 On the waterfront

Koos de Jong

A 20th-century Chinese carpet is important in both artistic and historical terms

122 A celebration of expertise

Thomas Cole

Tibetan textiles collected by Thomas Murray join the Minneapolis Institute of Art

128 Bridges between East and West

Rosemary Crill

The once complex web formed by Indian textiles is discussed through a major museum acquisition

136 Beastly business

Shilpa Shah

An uncommon 300-year-old Indian chintz is full of depictions of grotesque creatures

142 Exhibition preview

'The Living Tradition of Chimayó Weaving', Whitehawk Antique Indian & Ethnographic Art Show, Santa Fe

144 Exhibition reviews

Monde des Arts de la Parure (MAP), Marrakesh, reviewed by Christine Ramphal; 'Nobili Tappeti', Ducal Castle of Agliè, Piedmont

Marketplace

148 Auctions

North Indian animal carpet fragments, by Steven Cohen; The König collection of Chinese classical carpets at Christie's, London, by Michael Franses

152 Auction price guide

International auction results of note

160 Last page

Extravagant garments at the Rijksmuseum in Amsterdam showcase a century of flamboyant Dutch menswear