

In this issue

Issue 225 Autumn 2025

56

Compass

11 Editorial

Carpets and textiles gain long-deserved attention in the art world and institutional landscape broadening their reach and appeal

25 Dialogue

Bayeux tapestry heads to the British Museum; Hajji Baba Club Research Fellowship; de Young Indigenous America art galleries; Textile Museum Curatorial Fellowship; A wartime silk map dress; Rare tapestry exhibited for the first time in a century; Scottish Iron-Age textile unearthed; Landmark textile collection donated

28 Diary

HALI's recommendations for the quarter

31 Calendar

Auctions, exhibitions, fairs and conferences

32 Thread of time

Rachel Meek
Headhunting connections in a khalat robe from Uzbekistan and a hingii cloth from Indonesia

34 Profile

Elisabeth Parker
Michael Grogan and Georgina Winthrop at the helm of Grogan and Company

36 Interview

Tom Farnham
Inside George Bradley's new book Carpet Diem: Tales from the World of Oriental Rugs

40 Anatomy of an object

Eiren Shea
Newly published gauze fragments belonging to elite women in the Liao dynasty are a valuable addition to their so-far scant scholarship

42 Common thread

Publications from Hali focus on hats from across the world

Features

46 Six centuries in 100 textiles

Ruth Barnes
The geographical and temporal expanses of Indonesia's textile trade and manufacture

56 Leopard and bird

Stefano Ionescu
The surviving documentation and extensive study of white-ground rugs from Ushak and Selendi

64 From the best wool in the Caucasus

Cosima Stewart
A new book sheds light on kilims made by Tusheti communities in a mountainous region of Georgia

70 Stitching the story together

Rumi Satoh
A show of textiles from the Karun Thakar collection allows a coherent history of chintz to be told

78 Fabrics with a flourish

Anna Jolly
A special exhibition drawn from the collection of the Abegg-Stiftung celebrates the colourful, sought-after textiles of the Mughal Empire

122

110

78

86

Woven wonders

Michael Franes

A rare display of antique carpets from western and southern Asia at the Hong Kong Palace Museum

96

Chimayó's next chapter

Emily Trujillo

A mission to preserve and revitalise a New Mexican weaving tradition

98

Love at first sight

Chris Hall

As his Chinese textiles are exhibited at the Hong Kong Palace Museum, the collector reveals the roots of his passion

110

Connecting continents

Thomas Murray

The reopening of The Michael C. Rockefeller Wing at New York's Metropolitan Museum of Art

118

An eye for narrative

John Bakti

Pieces whose stories are easily overlooked by collectors seduced by more spectacular examples

122

Seven centuries, three continents

Philip K. Hu

The Saint Louis Art Museum's current exhibition of Islamic textiles concentrates on just twenty-four of the finest and rarest examples

130

Machine-made motifs

Lucy Upward

A new collection of Moroccan rugs combines ancient craft and AI design

132

Tipu Sultan's tiger economy

Lucien de Guise

An exhibition in Kuala Lumpur looks at Tipu Sultan of Mysore, a fierce foe of British rule in India

Reviews

140

Exhibition preview

Esther Sackmann Rageth on an upcoming symposium and Europe's oldest collectors' society

144

Book review

Threads of Empire: A History of the World in Twelve Carpets by Dorothy Armstrong, reviewed by Daniel Shaffer

148

Exhibition review

'Traditional Kemben Draperies', Galerie Smend

Marketplace

150

Exhibitions

'Art Deco 1925–2025: A Century of Progressive Design', Alberto Levi Gallery, review by Ben Evans

152

Auction Price Guide

International auction results of note

160

Last page

Carpets by Azerbaijani artist Faig Ahmed are shown in his home country for the first time

