

In this issue

Issue 226 Winter 2025

48

Compass

11 Editorial

The relocation of items held in storage by the V&A has resulted in greater access to previously hidden artefacts

25 Dialogue

Louis XIV's Savonnerie carpets; Papua New Guinea's fifty years of independence; History of the suzani; New museum space at the Princeton University Art Museum; Korea's first gallery of Islamic arts; R. L. Shep Memorial Book Award; New Native North America gallery; Five Continents at the Louvre

28 Diary

HALI's recommendations for the quarter

31 Calendar

Auctions, exhibitions, fairs and conferences

32 Thread of time

Rachel Meek

Meanings of boats on a palepai from Lampung and a 'Portuguese' carpet from Khorasan

34 Profile

Ben Evans

Alex Zadah discusses how the carpet scene has changed and adapted across successive decades

36 Interview

Malin Lonnberg

Lekha Poddar—collector, philanthropist and businesswoman—on attitudes to textiles in India

38 Common thread

Uses and tastes for Indian printed cotton cloths across different regions

Features

42 London's pride

Several people assess the V&A's new initiative, which allows the public to view artefacts by appointment at the East Storehouse

48 Looking to the East

Alberto Boralevi

An exhibition at MITA aims to engage a wider public in the appreciation of Chinese carpets

54 Shared aesthetics

Talia Spielholz

A fresh look at a remarkable collection of textiles gifted to the Fine Arts Museums of San Francisco in the 20th century

60 The art of shawl-making

Cyrus Naji

Eight paintings by the 19th-century Sikh artist Bishan Singh sold for over £1 million at Christie's

68 Preserved in pigment

Jordan R. Quill

Tibetan temple paintings record thigma, tie-dyed woollen cloths from ca. 1200

82 When turkey red ruled the roost

Susan Meller

For more than half a century, British firms exported vast quantities of cloth of a particular shade to India

84 Facing death

Isaac Facio, Nneka Kai, L. Vinebaum and Anne Wilson

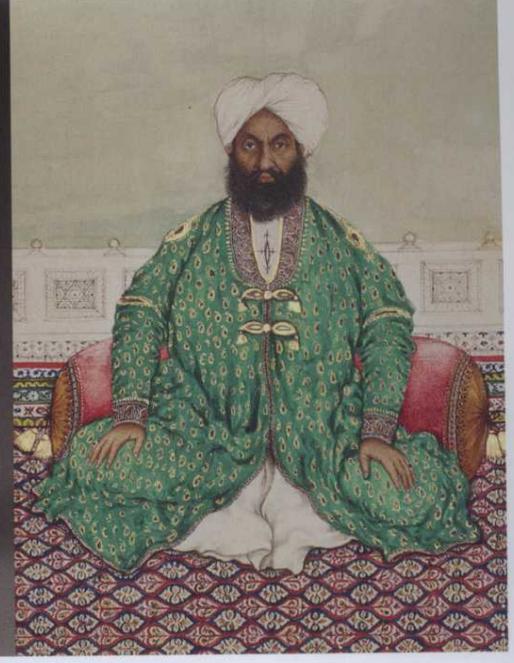

An Art Institute of Chicago exhibition shows how textiles sustain belief and help us cope with grief

68

38

60

90 Well met by moonlight

The continuity of expression in photographs of the Javanese temple, Borobudur, and batiks from the collection of Jonathan Hope

92 Threading her way

Magali An Berthon
A Paris exhibition explores Sheila Hicks's creativity and friendship with Monique Lévi-Strauss

100 Dynamic development

Ben Evans
A carpet that is testament to the Textile Museum founder's eye, and the evolution of carpet design

102 Flowers from the Land of the Five Rivers

Saima Kaur
An extract from Threads of Time: A Cultural Journey, on the phulkari of Punjab

108 Eternal order

Jill D'Alessandro
An abridged essay from the new book on Michael Mandapati's collection of kilims

114 Behind the veil

Snezhanna Atanova
The unique construction, design and role of rubands and chasmbands

122 Time to rewrite ikat history?

An unusual 14th-century geringsing is C-14 dated and the subject of intense study

126 Finding the plot

Ana Kol
The characters and narrative of an Indo-Portuguese textile from the Karun Thakar collection

132 Both sides of the moon

Monisha Ahmed
A TAPI Collection exhibition of 'moon shawls' and reversible examples

136 Informed interpretation

Shannon Cherry and Ellie Welch
A major Pitt Rivers Museum project offers opportunities for improved access and better conservation of the textiles collection

Reviews

140 Exhibition reviews

'White Gold: Cotton in the Art of the Soviet East', State Museum of the East, Moscow, reviewed by Natalia Glazovskaya; 'Faig Ahmed: Epoch 2011–2024', Azerbaijan National Carpet Museum, Baku, and 'Mystic of Matter', Purdue University, Indiana, reviewed by Ella Haig; 'The Art of Oriental Carpets', Handarbetets Vänner, Stockholm

148 Conference review

9th IASSRT Conference, UC Berkeley, reviewed by Joan Hart

Marketplace

150 Auction preview

'The Pip Rau Collection of Ikat, Embroideries and Costumes', Olympia Auctions

152 Auction price guide

International auction results of note

160 Last page

A Paris show created by Christian Louboutin looks into the role of Indian textiles in cultural exchange